Construction on Southern Missionary College's new $650,000 library building should be completed about May 1. The campaign for financing the structure will end at the close of 1970.

Library Fund Hits $366,000 Interior Work Now Underway

Approximately $366,000 has been raised toward SMC's library fund campaign, according to Charles Fleming Jr., general manager for finance and development.

Part of this figure ($30,161) was solicited by SMC through offerings from the churches of the Southern Union Conference during the years 1965-67. Another $35,733 of this total of $650,000 has already been given by SMC alumni ($10,912); alumni who are faculty ($3,932); and SMC faculty and employees ($12,322); Chattanooga business firms have given $34,220; foundations, $57,220; constituents and Southern Union local conferences, $69,829; special gifts, $145,800; foundations — matching funds, $1,500.

The grand total now comes to $363,894, leaving a balance of $284,106 to be raised from among the above groups.

The library will have a seating capacity of 516 which includes 316 study carrels that will allow for individual, undisturbed study.

Several carrels will be sound-proof to allow for typing. Two or three typewriters will be supplied by the library; other rooms will be provided where students may bring their own typewriters.

Facilities are planned to accommodate 100,000 volumes, compared with the present library's 60,000. Expansion provisions allow for a total of 300,000 volumes.

A feature of the basement is an area for Seventh-day Adventist books. This space will specialize in the history of SMC, and SDA work in the South. A vault for rare books is also to be located here.
